Foreword

It is with great pleasure that I welcome delegates, speakers and distinguished guests to the Inaugural Southeast Asia PISA Education Consortium 2026, hosted by the Ministry of Education, Brunei Darussalam.

The establishment of this Consortium marks an important step in strengthening regional collaboration to advance educational quality and equity. Drawing on insights from the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) 2025 international reports, the Consortium provides a platform for evidence-informed dialogue, knowledge exchange and shared learning to support improvements in education across the region.

This inaugural gathering brings together education leaders, policymakers and experts from Southeast Asia, East Asia and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Discussions will focus on four key areas: Science Proficiency; Students' Well-being and Learning Environment; Students' Digital Interaction, including Artificial Intelligence; and Climate Change and Environmental Challenges. These priority themes reflect the need for education systems to respond to evolving learner needs and emerging global challenges.

Beyond examining assessment findings, the Consortium aims to strengthen regional partnerships, encourage the sharing of effective practices and support the translation of evidence into policies and practices that enhance educational outcomes. As Brunei Darussalam's representative to the PISA Governing Board, I recognize the value of international cooperation and mutual learning. Such exchange helps education systems reflect on their priorities, draw on different experiences and identify approaches suited to their respective contexts.

It is my sincere hope that this Consortium will develop into a sustained platform for regional cooperation, educational innovation and continuous improvement. I would like to express my appreciation to all participating countries, OECD representatives, speakers, partners and members of the organising committee for their invaluable contributions and support.

I wish all participants a productive and enriching exchange. May the discussions and partnerships fostered through this inaugural gathering contribute to continued progress in education across Southeast Asia and beyond.

وَبِاللهِ التَّوْفِيقُ وَالهِدَايَةُ
وَعَلَيْكُمُ السَّلَامُ وَرَحْمَةُ اللهِ وَبَرَكَاتُهُ

Logo Description

SOUTHEAST ASIA
PISA
EDUCATION CONSORTIUM

Symbol Meaning:

Three interconnected pathways converge around a shared centre. This represents:

- Continuous learning
- Reflection and improvement
- Sustainable development

The circular flow communicates that educational improvement is an ongoing process rather than a fixed destination. The nodes demonstrate that progress is achieved through connection, dialogue, and mutual support.

They symbolize partnership in education excellence, regional cooperation, knowledge sharing and collective responsibility

Primary Message

Southeast Asian collaboration advancing educational excellence through research, assessment, innovation and learner-centred development.

Research, Knowledge and Evidence

The blue pathway represents the generation, sharing, and application of knowledge. It symbolises:

- Research and inquiry
- Evidence-informed decision making
- Academic and policy credibility
- Regional knowledge exchange

It represents the continual pursuit of understanding, ensuring that policies, practices and innovations are grounded in reliable data and professional expertise. Blue for Knowledge, Credibility and Evidence.

Innovation & Transformation

The teal pathway represents innovation and the ability of education systems to adapt to emerging needs and future challenges. It symbolises:

- Innovation in policy and practice
- Digital transformation
- Future readiness

Its flowing movement suggests adaptability, creativity, and continuous evolution. Teal for innovation, digital transformation and future readiness.

Learner-Centred Development

The green pathway represents learners as the ultimate beneficiaries of educational improvement.It symbolizes:

- Personal growth
- Human development
- Inclusion and well-being
- Sustainable educational progress

Its strong foundational position reflects the importance of placing learners at the centre of all educational efforts. Green for growth, human development and sustainability.

Shared Educational Excellence

The Aing Mulih motif introduces a distinctive Bruneian cultural signature. The purple centre represents the collective purpose that connects all. Here the 11 rings symbolises:

- ASEAN countries
- Shared educational excellence
- Common goals
- Collective impact

Positioned at the heart of the logo, it reflects the idea that collaboration creates outcomes greater than any single institution can achieve alone.

Speakers and Facilitators

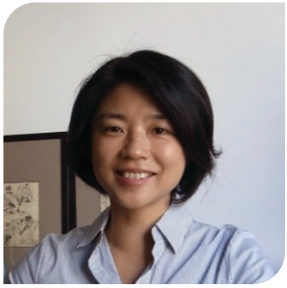

Andreas Schleicher

Director for Education and Skills
Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Paris

Andreas Schleicher is internationally recognised as one of the leading voices in global education policy and assessment. As Director for Education and Skills at the OECD, he initiated and oversees the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA), the world's most influential international study of student achievement. Through his leadership, PISA has become an important benchmark for policymakers, researchers and educators seeking to improve educational outcomes and promote equity in education systems worldwide.

Mr Schleicher has worked extensively with ministers and education leaders across the globe to support evidence-informed policy development and educational transformation. Prior to joining the OECD, he served as Director for Analysis at the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement (IEA). His contributions to international education have been widely recognised through numerous awards and honours, including Germany's prestigious Theodor Heuss Prize. He also holds an Honorary Professorship at the University of Heidelberg.

Miyako Ikeda

Senior Analyst

Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Paris

Miyako Ikeda is a Senior Analyst at the OECD and currently leads the analysis and management of PISA data and reporting. Her work focuses on generating insights from international assessment data to support countries in strengthening educational policies and practices.

She holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Tokyo and a Doctorate from Teachers College, Columbia University. Prior to joining the OECD, Ms Ikeda worked with the World Bank in Vietnam and UNESCO's International Institute for Educational Planning (IIEP). She has extensive experience in education research, policy analysis and international cooperation, particularly within Asia and developing education systems.

Soumaya Maghnouj

PISA Analyst

Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), Paris

Soumaya Maghnouj is a member of the OECD's PISA analytical team and leads the PISA Analysis and Reporting Partnership initiative, which supports participating countries in strengthening national capacity for analysing and reporting PISA results. Her work assists governments in making greater use of assessment data to inform educational improvement.

She brings extensive experience in education policy reviews and technical assistance, having supported OECD partner countries for several years. Prior to this, she served as Project Lead for Curriculum, Assessment and Pedagogy at UNESCO Bangkok. Ms Maghnouj holds degrees in Economics and Public Policy from Sciences Po, École Polytechnique and ENSAE Paris and is widely recognised for her expertise in educational assessment and policy analysis.

About The Southeast Asia PISA Education Consortium

The Southeast Asia PISA Education Consortium is a regional platform established by the Ministry of Education, Brunei Darussalam following the release of the Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA) 2025 international reports.

The Consortium aims to strengthen collaboration among participating countries through the sharing of insights, best practices and evidence-informed educational policies. It serves as a forum for collective learning and professional exchange focused on improving educational quality and equity across diverse educational contexts.

Bringing together Southeast Asian countries and selected partner countries from East Asia, the Consortium promotes meaningful dialogue and strategic cooperation among education leaders, policymakers and practitioners. Through continued engagement, member countries can learn from one another's experiences and work towards achieving sustainable improvements in student learning outcomes.

The Southeast Asia PISA Education Consortium is envisioned as a continuing regional initiative, with future hosting to be undertaken on a rotational basis among participating member countries.

Objectives and Expected Outcomes

Objectives

The Consortium seeks to:

- Provide opportunities for participating countries to share educational experiences, innovations and challenges.
- Promote regional dialogue on educational quality, equity and access to learning.
- Encourage evidence-informed policymaking through learning from PISA findings.
- Strengthen collaboration and professional networks among member countries.

Expected Outcomes

The Consortium is anticipated to:

- Promote evidence-based policy-making for educational improvement.
- Enhance strategic leadership and capacity development.
- Strengthen regional cooperation and shared commitments.
- Foster continuous knowledge exchange and mutual learning among participating countries.

Consortium Theme 2026

Guided by the theme, "Advancing Innovative and Sustainable Education: From PISA Evidence to Action", it highlights the importance of using PISA evidence and findings to support education that is more innovative, responsive and sustainable. Educational evidence not only helps systems understand student performance, but also provides insights into students' learning experiences, well-being, learning environments and interactions with the digital world.

PISA 2025 findings, including science proficiency, students' well-being and learning environment, and digital interaction including AI, can provide a basis for identifying strengths, challenges and opportunities for improvement within education systems. Such evidence can support policy development, strategic planning, leadership decisions and targeted interventions that are appropriate to each country's context.

Through the Southeast Asia PISA Education Consortium 2026, countries across the region have an opportunity to share best practices and key lessons, strengthen professional networks, and explore how PISA evidence can be translated into actions that improve teaching, learning and education systems.

The theme reflects a shared aspiration to move from understanding evidence to using it meaningfully to strengthen student learning and education systems across Southeast Asia.
